This notice explains what personal data Worcester College holds about you, how we use it internally, how we share it, how long we keep it and what your legal rights are in relation to it.

For the parts of your personal data that you supply to us, this notice also explains the basis on which you are required or requested to provide the information. For the parts of your personal data that we generate about you, or that we receive from others, it explains the source of the data.

There are some instances where we process your personal data on the basis of your consent. This notice sets out the categories and purposes we use your data for where your consent is needed.

What is your personal data and how does the law regulate our use of it?

“Personal data” is information relating to you as a living, identifiable individual. We refer to this as “your data”. It can include information such as your name, contact details, education history and other information about you that we may process.

“Processing” your data includes various operations that may be carried out on your data, including collecting, recording, organising, using, disclosing, storing and deleting it.

The law requires us:

- To process your data in a lawful, fair and transparent way;
- To only collect your data for explicit and legitimate purposes;
- To only collect data that is relevant, and limited to the purpose(s) we have told you about;
• To ensure that your data is accurate and up to date;

Data that you provide to us and the possible consequences of you not providing it

If you do not provide us with information that we ask for:

If you want to attend an open day or outreach activity, it may mean that you cannot attend the open day or outreach activity, depending on the type of information we requested.

Other sources of your data

Apart from the data that you provide to us, we may also process data about you from a range of sources. These include:
• Your school or previous educational establishments or employers if they provide references to us;
• Your family members, guardians, friends, and other contacts who may provide us with information about you if and when they contact us, or vice versa.

The lawful basis on which we process your data

The law requires that we provide you with information about the lawful basis on which we process your personal data, and for what purposes.

Most commonly, we will process your data on the following lawful grounds:
• Where it is necessary for our legitimate interests (or those of a third party) and your interests and fundamental rights do not override those legitimate interests.
• Where necessary to comply with a legal obligation;

We may also use your data, typically in an emergency, where this is necessary to protect your vital interests, or someone else’s vital interests. In a small number of cases where other lawful bases do not apply, we will process your data on the basis of your consent. Where you are aged under 18, we may ask your parent or guardian for their consent also.
How we apply further protection in the case of “Special Categories” of personal data

“Special categories” of particularly sensitive personal data require higher levels of protection. We need to have further justification for collecting, storing and using this type of personal data.

The Special Categories of personal data consist of data revealing:

- racial or ethnic origin;
- political opinions;
- religious or philosophical beliefs;
- trade union membership.

They also consist of the processing of:

- genetic data;
- biometric data (e.g. fingerprints) for the purpose of uniquely identifying someone;
- data concerning health;
- data concerning someone’s sex life or sexual orientation.

We may process special categories of personal data in the following circumstances:

- With your explicit written consent; or
- Where it is necessary in the substantial public interest, and further conditions are met;
- Where the processing is necessary for archiving purposes in the public interest, or for scientific or historical research purposes, or statistical purposes, subject to further safeguards for your fundamental rights and interests specified in law.

We have in place an appropriate policy document and/or other safeguards which we are required by law to maintain when processing such data.

Less commonly, we may process this type of data where it is needed in relation to legal claims or where it is needed to protect your interests (or someone else’s interests) and you are not capable of giving your consent, or where you have already made the data public.

Criminal convictions and allegations of criminal activity

Further legal controls apply to data relating to criminal convictions and allegations of criminal activity. We may process such data on the same grounds as those identified for “special categories” referred to above.

Details of our processing activities, including our lawful basis for processing

We have prepared a detailed table setting out the processing activities that we undertake, the source of the data, the reasons why we process it, how long we keep it and the lawful basis we rely on.
How we share your data

We will not sell your data to third parties. We will only share it with third parties if we are allowed or required to do so by law. This includes for example:

- where we are required to report information to the University of Oxford in order for it to fulfill its obligations to report information to the Higher Education Statistics Agency or its successor body in order to comply with regulatory obligations;
- where we report information to the Higher Education Access Tracker, whose privacy notice is available at https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/increasing-access/heatprivacynotice and https://heat.ac.uk/privacy-notice/;
- where we decide to report alleged criminal misconduct to the police.

It also includes disclosures where the third party is an agent or service provider appointed by the College to enable us to operate effectively, provided we are satisfied that appropriate safeguards have been put in place to ensure adequate levels of security for your data. All our third party service providers are required to take appropriate security measures to protect your personal information in line with our policies, and are only permitted to process your personal data for specific purposes in accordance with our instructions. We do not allow our third party providers to use your personal data for their own purposes.

More information on the categories of recipients of your data is set out in a table at http://www.worc.ox.ac.uk/about/policies-and-procedures/privacy-gdpr.

Sharing your data outside the United Kingdom

The law provides various further safeguards where data is transferred outside of the United Kingdom.

We may transfer your data outside the United Kingdom, but only for the purposes referred to in this notice and provided either:

- There is a decision of the UK Government that the level of protection of personal data in the recipient country is adequate; or
- Appropriate safeguards are in place to ensure that your data is treated in accordance with UK data protection law, for example through the use of standard contractual clauses; or
- There is an applicable derogation in law which permits the transfer in the absence of an adequacy decision or an appropriate safeguard.

Automated decision-making
We do not envisage that any decisions will be taken about you based solely on automated means, however we will notify you in writing if this position changes.

- The right to object to any automated decision-making about you which produces legal effects or otherwise significantly affects you.
- Where the lawful basis for processing your data is consent, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. When you tell us you wish to exercise your right, we will stop further processing of such data. This will not affect the validity of any lawful processing of your data up until the time when you withdrew your consent. You may withdraw your consent by contacting the Senior Admissions & Outreach Officer, Worcester College, Walton Street, Oxford, OX1 2HB, access.outreach@worc.ox.ac.uk or by contacting the College’s Data Protection Officer, Worcester College, Walton Street, Oxford, OX1 2HB, dataprotection@worc.ox.ac.uk.
